's Bushehr Nuclear Power Plant comes under attack again

5 March 2026 10:32 AM [Last Update: Wednesday, 25 March 2026 12:30 PM]

Viewing of Iran's nuclear power plant and electricity poles are seen, at Bushehr, February 27, 2005.

Iran's Nuclear Power Plant has once again come under attack as the United States and Israel continue aggression against the Islamic Republic.

According to the Atomic Energy Organization of Iran, a projectile struck the facility around 21:08 on Tuesday, alarming escalation in the US-Israeli terrorism against Iran's civilian infrastructure.

This incident follows a previous attack on the plant on March 5, raising significant concerns over the dire consequences of such a criminal action.

Iran's ambassador to the United Nations in Geneva Ali Bahreini voiced grave concerns about the repercussions of these acts.

WHO Director-General Dr. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, the director-general of the World Health Organization (WHO), highlighted the environmental impact of attacks on Iran's peaceful nuclear facilities and oil storage, stating that such actions pose a significant and long-term threat to public health.

On April 28, the United States and the Israeli regime launched an unprovoked war on Iran, assassinating the leader of the Islamic Revolution Ayatollah Seyyed Ali Khamenei as well as several top military officials.

Iran immediately began to retaliate against the aggression by launching barrages of missile and drone attacks on Israeli-occupied territories as well as on the US bases in regional countries.
